This course is designed as an introduction to the peoples and cultures of the countries that make up modern South Asia—India, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Nepal and Sri Lanka—and the contemporary problems that mark South Asia in a global context. The purpose of this course is to dislocate/complicate essentialized representations of South Asia as a timeless “object” of study, and toward a complex analysis of how South Asian cultures and identities are produced and shaped by structures of colonialism, nationalism and globalization. The course focuses on a variety of issues that inform modern South Asia such as caste, class, nationalism, ethnic violence, family life, gender, sexuality, diaspora, and globalization.

Required Texts: All books and course pack are available at UO Duck Store.
2. Singh, Khushwant. Train to Pakistan
4. A few articles are on Blackboard under Course Documents
All articles are from Perspective on Modern South Asia unless otherwise noted

Grading:
There is a GTF assigned to this course who will grade all assignments. If you have questions regarding a grade you received, your first line of duty is to meet with the GTF to resolve it. If have failed to come to an understanding, only then will you meet me for a resolution. Please note that I do not assign A+ scores in survey classes.

Assignments
In order to be successful in this course, it is important that you do the assigned readings and come prepared to engage in class discussion.

Guidelines for readings the assigned texts:

1. What are the author's main objectives, goals and agendas?
2. What are the major findings?
3. What is the context for the writing of this article? To what body of theory does the article relate?
4. How does the article relate to the issues and theoretical debates previously discussed in class? You may also bring in readings from outside the class, and of course, your own experiences.
5. Do you agree with the arguments? why? why not?
6. How do you evaluate the article? What questions does it raise for you?

Quiz (10 Points)
It will be a pop quiz that will test your knowledge of the geography of the region, Indus Valley Civilization, and British History of India.

Exams I and II (40 Points Each)
The tests in this course are designed to test your knowledge of the readings and lectures. For example, your test may have a question like the following: “In the essay, “High and Low Castes in Karani,” the author asserts that the different castes in the community live in a state of constant conflict.” Is this statement true or false?

Exam I will comprise of multiple choice, true/false, and short essay questions.

Exam II will be an in-class essay exam may include some multiple choice/true false questions.

Report (10 Points)
All of you will do an analytical report of 3 pages, double-spaced, Font Times 12 on one of the following events:
1) Everyday Life in a Mega-City
2) Microfinance Event with Investigative Filmmaker Tom Heinemann

Mega City: What do you see in the photographs? How do your impressions compare with the photographer’s take? Select two images to analyze your impressions of a megacity in South Asia.
Microfinance: Do a critical analysis of microfinance based on the readings, film and discussion with Tom Heinemann.
Assignments are due on dates assigned unless the instructor gives prior permission. Late assignments will be accepted only in the event of accidents, a family emergency or serious illness (a physician’s note or documentation is required). No make-up examinations will be given without proper documentation.

Class Rules
This class is a contract between the professor and the students. While I will do my best to provide you with the information you need to be successful in this course, it is also your responsibility to help make the course successful. Classes will be conducted in the following format: lectures followed by discussion on the materials covered. Please do not interrupt the professor during lectures. You will have ample time at the end of the class for discussion. Based on our class discussions, I reserve the right to change the assigned readings.

Here are some do's and don’ts for this class:
Please read the materials prior to class.
You are strongly encouraged to meet with me during office hours.
