Course Description:
This class will use interdisciplinary approaches to understand Native American lives, examining Native American identities, practices, histories, cultures, and political statuses in context.

Course Objectives:
Students successfully completing this class should
1. understand the basic principles of indigenous political status, tribal sovereignty, colonialism, federal Indian policy, and treaty rights;
2. have basic knowledge of indigenous histories, literary production, environmental concerns, cultural concerns, activism, and resistance;
3. be able to discuss the ways discourse about Indians relates to ideology about colonial and racial relations;
4. be able to express informed opinions about contemporary tribal political issues;
5. be able to name at least nine Oregon tribes.

Required texts:
(available at UO Bookstore)
Leslie Marmon Silko. Ceremony.
David Wilkins and Heidi Stark. American Indian Politics and the American Political System.

Additional readings on blackboard.

Course policies:
Papers will receive a one-grade deduction for being late and an additional deduction for every week they are late after that.

Academic honesty is required at all points in your education. Acts of academic dishonesty will result in an F for the class and referral to the office of student conduct. Be particularly careful to avoid plagiarism by properly acknowledging all sources of information, including quotations, paraphrases, and ideas that are not your own. If you are unsure about what needs to be cited, err on the side of caution and/or speak to me about it. See http://library.uoregon.edu/guides/plagiarism/students/index.html for details.

For those of you with disabilities, please let me know what accommodations I can make that will help make this class equally accessible for you.

Attendance is mandatory every day (really, this goes for all your classes, but in this one we’ll have quizzes to make sure you attend and keep up with the readings, too!). Chronic absenteeism may result in an F for the class.
